Rocky Mountain Wildlife Veterinary Externship

Who: Eligible students will be in their 4th year of veterinary training during the time of the externship. Six students will be accepted each year.

What: This four week externship will include one week of group activities, providing exposure to each of the participating agencies. During the following three weeks, each of the participating agencies will host two students for a more individualized experience. Each student will be required to complete a project to be presented at the end of the rotation. The rotation is expected to include lectures, field trips, and hands-on experiences dependent on opportunities that arise during the course of the rotation. However, the majority of time spent by a wildlife veterinarian is in the office. This externship will reflect the real-world experiences and responsibilities of a wildlife veterinarian, including paperwork and communications that sustain veterinary clinical and field work.

Where: Students will be based in Fort Collins, Colorado or Laramie, Wyoming. Students will be provided with a list of housing opportunities; however, students will be responsible for all travel, housing arrangements, and costs. Students in Laramie, Wyoming will be provided housing by the Wyoming Game and Fish Department. Additional details will be provided to successful applicants.

Why: This collaborative approach to veterinary student training in the Rocky Mountain region is designed to provide students with broad exposure to the numerous wildlife veterinary professionals present in the region. Student projects will be designed with host agencies to provide a real-world experience for the student.
